PART 2: INDEPENDENT GIRLS' SCHOOLS SCHOLARSHIP CO-OPERATIVE MODEL

- Perth College
- Presbyterian Ladies' College
- St Hilda's Anglican School for Girls

This model ensures a fair, transparent, and efficient process for families while maintaining each school's unique scholarship opportunities.

It simplifies the scholarship process, enabling applicants to sit one test and nominate up to three schools in preference order.

1. How The Co-operative Model Works

- Families may nominate up to three schools in order of preference
 - Families submit a separate application to each preferred school, with all relevant supporting documents required by each school.
 - The AAS scholarship test can only be sat once, at the first-preference school (unless remote/overseas)
- In-person scholarship tests can only be sat at your first-preference school.
- Test results are shared ONLY with schools to which a paid application has been completed.

 - It is the location where your daughter will sit her scholarship test.
 - It is the school that will consider your daughter during the first round of scholarship offers.
- All participating schools issue their scholarship offers simultaneously, ensuring a fair and transparent process for all candidates.
- If a first-preference offer is declined, the applicant may then be considered by their second-preference school in the next round, and so on.
- Scholarship offers are strictly confidential. Member schools within the co-operative will not engage in discussions to negotiate or counter scholarship offers made by another member school. Any attempt to do so will be considered a breach of confidentiality, and may result in the scholarship offer being withdrawn.
